TruePath Technologies

Are Your Servers Up and Running?

How Do You Know?

- Are you tired of the Network always being blamed?

- Do your customers know before you do when the production server is down?

- How much battery time do you have if power fails in your data-center right now?

- Do you have historical graphs that show trending data to help you in your next project?

- Is every department using a different monitoring software?

- Is your monitoring map out of control?

- Who will know first when your production application(s) stops working?

- Have you spent money on monitoring software but just haven't gotten the full potential out of it?

- Are you tired of getting false alarms at night on your pager and cell phone?

- Does your staff spend more time wrestling with monitoring software and alerts than doing their actual jobs?
